Independent Blog Writing Positions | Write Short Kindle Books and Earn Passive Income Monthly

Description

About This Remote Writing Opportunity

If you're actively searching for freelance blogging jobs, you're likely tired of inconsistent pay, content mills, and clients who change direction mid-project. This opportunity offers something entirely different: you'll learn to write and publish your own short Kindle books and collect royalties every month—no clients, no deadlines, and no prior experience needed.

Instead of blogging for someone else's site, you'll build a portfolio of books that Amazon readers buy and read every day. With the Kindle Riches system, you'll receive step-by-step guidance, templates, and promotional tools to help you create and launch Kindle books quickly. Think of it as blog-style writing—packaged as digital products that sell over and over again.

If you've written blog posts before, you already have what it takes to thrive here.

What You'll Be Doing

This is a self-paced, repeatable writing and publishing system. Each week, you'll go from blank page to live Kindle book. Your responsibilities include:

1. Choosing a Book Topic

- Use the included research tools to find low-competition, high-demand Kindle niches
- Select a topic similar to what you might write about in a blog—productivity, self-help, wellness, finance, etc.
- Apply pre-built outlines to structure your book before writing begins

2. Creating Content

- Follow a plug-and-play writing template to produce a 3,000–7,000 word Kindle book
- Write the content yourself or outsource using the guidance provided
- Edit and format your manuscript using included checklists

3. Designing and Uploading

Date posted
April 29, 2026

4. Publishing and Promotion

- Publish your book to Amazon's global marketplace
- Launch using the press release template provided in the system
- Monitor royalty performance and begin working on your next title

Valid through
01.01.2029

Every book you publish becomes a long-term revenue-generating asset.

Example Weekly Workflow

Day 1: Research and outline your topic

Day 2–3: Write or outsource your content

Day 4: Format your book and design your cover

Day 5: Upload to Kindle and publish

Day 6–7: Promote and begin next project

Each cycle builds your portfolio—and your monthly income.

What You'll Be Writing

If you've written listicles, how-to posts, or beginner guides for blogs, you'll feel right at home. The books you'll create are structured similarly:

- "10 Productivity Hacks for Busy Parents"
- "Beginner's Guide to Personal Budgeting"
- "How to Start a Gratitude Journal"
- "Simple Meal Prep for Healthier Living"

These are short, helpful guides meant to solve a problem or inspire a change—just like blog posts, but now they earn royalties.

Tools and Training Included

The Kindle Riches system provides everything you need to succeed:

- Full video training for every stage of the publishing process
- Topic selection strategies and niche research tools
- Pre-written templates for book creation
- Formatting guides and publishing checklists
- Cover design walkthroughs using free online tools
- Metadata optimization techniques for Amazon
- Book launch press release templates
- Ongoing scaling and royalty strategies

It's beginner-friendly, fully explained, and entirely self-paced.

Requirements

You don't need to be a published author or professional blogger.

What You Need:

- A laptop or desktop with internet
- Familiarity with Google Docs or MS Word
- Basic writing ability and consistency
- 5–10 hours per week to follow the system and complete projects

What You Don't Need:

- A blog or social media following
- A degree or certifications
- Previous experience with publishing or Kindle
- Design or advertising skills

If you've ever written a blog post or article, you're more than ready.

Who This Is For

This opportunity is ideal for:

- Bloggers who want to build lasting income from their writing
- Freelancers tired of pitching and waiting for assignments
- Remote workers who want to own what they create
- Side hustlers and content creators who crave freedom and flexibility
- Beginners ready to earn from home without relying on platforms or clients

If you enjoy writing and want to create something that pays you repeatedly, this model is for you.

How You'll Earn

Amazon pays you monthly royalties based on book sales and Kindle Unlimited page reads. Unlike freelance blogging gigs that pay once per post, Kindle publishing gives you income long after your book is finished.

Typical earnings:

- $50–$200/month from a single Kindle book
- $500–$1,500/month with 5–10 books
- $2,000+/month for writers who publish consistently

Your royalty stream builds over time, giving you more income with every book.

Why This Beats Traditional Freelance Blogging

Freelance blogging often means:

- Constant pitching to new clients
- Getting paid once for hours of writing
- Writing to someone else's style and needs
- Unpredictable deadlines and edits

This model offers:

- Full ownership of your content
- Passive income that keeps growing

- Creative control and freedom
- A predictable system you can repeat and scale

It's your writing, your schedule, your royalties.
