Paid Freelance Writing – Remote Publishing Assistant for Kindle Nonfiction

Description

Position Summary

A fast-expanding nonfiction publishing client is actively recruiting remote publishing assistants for paid freelance writing assignments. This role is part of a streamlined, repeatable content production system built for Amazon Kindle publishing. Candidates will help finalize AI-assisted book content, optimize metadata, and format manuscripts for publication—without needing to write original material from scratch. It's a perfect entry point for aspiring remote professionals interested in paid freelance writing that's predictable, scalable, and structured. No degree or prior experience is needed; training and templates are provided.

About the Client

The client operates a high-volume nonfiction publishing operation specializing in releasing Kindle titles across popular and evergreen niches including productivity, parenting, entrepreneurship, personal finance, mental health, and more. Using a combination of proprietary AI content tools and human oversight, they publish high-quality books that meet Amazon's standards and reader expectations. They've built a reputation for helping freelancers work from anywhere while gaining real experience in digital publishing.

Key Responsibilities

As a remote publishing assistant in this paid freelance writing position, you will:

- Review AI-generated nonfiction book drafts based on structured outlines
- Edit and revise passages for tone consistency, clarity, and grammar using provided checklists
- Apply formatting templates to ensure proper Kindle-ready layout and table of contents
- Use keyword and metadata optimization tools to finalize product descriptions
- Collaborate via internal dashboard to upload completed manuscripts and content packages
- Provide final quality assurance for spelling, style, and Amazon listing accuracy

This role doesn't involve idea generation, topic pitching, or client sourcing. You'll work with ready-to-go outlines and manuscripts.

A Typical Project Flow

- Day 1: Receive a project brief and initial AI-generated manuscript
- Day 2–3: Format manuscript, edit for readability, and apply metadata
- Day 4: Finalize, upload, and receive approval or revision feedback
- Day 5+: Start your next assignment or take a break—flexibility is built-in
