Online AI Automation Expert Trainee | New Worker Level | Work from Anywhere | No Prior Experience Required

Description

Looking to get into AI without writing code or selling anything? This remote opportunity gives you the practical tools to start building the workflows that power modern businesses—no degree, no background, and no technical skills needed.

You'll begin with a free 5-day guided training designed for total beginners. You'll follow clear instructions to build an automation system from scratch using intuitive visual platforms. These automations are the backbone of business efficiency in today's digital economy, and you'll learn exactly how to create them.

What You'll Create

In five structured sessions, you'll learn how to build:

- A lead capture form connected to a digital contact database
- Automated appointment scheduling and confirmations
- Email and SMS sequences triggered by behavior
- Contact tagging that personalizes follow-ups
- Fully hands-free workflows that replicate routine business tasks

Everything is browser-based and drag-and-drop. You'll leave with a real automation system you built yourself.

What This Prepares You For

Once the training is complete, you'll be equipped to:

- Build backend automations that small businesses rely on
- Offer workflow setup services for clients or teams
- Assist with automation implementation on freelance projects
- Operate behind the scenes without dealing with customers
- Support digital operations through scalable AI systems

It's a future-ready skill designed to fit the way businesses work now.

What You Don't Need

Valid through
01.01.2029

There's no need for:

- A resume or college education
- Tech skills, marketing background, or creative ability
- Any previous experience in automation or systems
- Paid software or tools
- Customer calls, chat duties, or sales responsibilities

The training is free and designed to meet you where you are.

Why This Skill Is Important

As AI tools become more common, businesses still need people to configure the automations. These aren't theoretical roles—they're real-world tasks that happen every day behind the scenes of successful companies.

Learning to build automation systems means you'll be developing a repeatable skill that's valuable, flexible, and remote-friendly.

What You'll Take Away

At the end of the training, you'll have:

- A fully working automation system you designed
- Templates you can use or modify for other workflows
- Knowledge of no-code platforms used by modern agencies
- A foundational skill that supports operational teams and small businesses
- The starting point for freelance, support, or backend project work

This is your entry point into the digital operations space.
